

MATTSONS TO LEAVE TAGOMA SEEKING REST

Family Will Go To
"Some Secluded Spot"

Officers Relentless in Search
For Kidnap-Slayer

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 15.—(P)—Relentless in their search for the kidnaper of little Charles Mattson, officers held a much-sought ex-convict and a former mental patient as the Mattson family prepared to vacate its Tacoma home for a rest in "some secluded spot."

It was understood Dr. W. W. Mattson, father of the victim, would leave Tacoma with his wife and two remaining children after a press conference tomorrow.

The conference was announced as designed to give Dr. Mattson an opportunity to clear up some of the mystery still veiling the 15 days of suspense between the abduction and the finding of Charles' beaten and frozen body last Monday.

Some sources recalled that the children, William, 16, and Muriel, 14, who witnessed the kidnapping, evidently had not been summoned to look through the police route's gallery for possible likenesses of the brutal abductor.

One informant said this might be taken to mean the federal agents knew who the abductor was.

The projected departure of the Mattsons suggested their presence here no longer was required by officers.

The hunted ex-convict, Fred Orrin Haynes, 46, walked into the Seattle police station this morning, sat for 15 minutes without being recognized and then announced:

"They've got me all wrapped around this kidnapping. I didn't have anything to do with it."

Although Haynes was booked on signed orders of Federal Agent A. E. Deere and Seattle Detective V. E. Webb, and questioned for more than an hour, Detective Captain Marshall Sanford said he had "no apparent connection" with the Mattson case.

Haynes, a former inmate of Folsom prison, Calif., had been sought since Wednesday, A. S. Jones, Calif., woman reported renting a cottage near Seattle to a man answering his description and a woman companion.

Federal agents and state police searched the furnished cottage yesterday but reported no discoveries of importance.

Arthur Madden, 26, who admitted once being an inmate of a hospital for the insane in Washington state, was held at Sacramento, Calif., for investigation.

Madden, who was arrested after a bank official reported he acted strangely, admitted Kaminsky said, that he knew Dr. Mattson, father of the slain boy, and that a member of his family had once been treated by the physician. Dr. Mattson said, however, he did not recall the man.

THE EXACT DEGREE

Aurora, Ill., Jan. 15.—(P)—Tipping drivers, if taken into custody here, will be forced to undergo an examination by a physician to determine the exact degree of intoxication affecting them. Police Chief A. G. Wyrz announced today.

"Too many cases have been lost because the arresting officer couldn't qualify as an expert witness," the chief explained. "But if we get a doctor on the stand, that problem will be solved."

Such a procedure also would end the "only one drink" alibi in Chief Wyrz's opinion.

Aged Hungarian Is Claiming Mustache Title of The World

Kaposvar, Hungary, Jan. 15.—(P)—John Kontra, aged 81, came forth today to claim the world's mustache championship—with a 28 inch entry.

Stretched, the adornment measures 14 inches on each side. As the crow flies, however, each wing is about eight inches.

That is because of its curl, the result of hours of lavish care. A ram's horn is best for this purpose, Kontra said, and he spends hours plaiting the mustache along the curves of the horn, using oil to make it conform.

The practice almost brought disaster. The special oil wasn't available one night as Kontra was getting into bed, and the mustache was ready for bed. So he had to take oil from a burning lamp on his table.

Then he lit his pipe. Flames burst forth. One eye was badly hurt but the mustache was unharmed.

ITALIAN PRESS CAMPAIGNS FOR FRENCH CAUSE

Seeks To Turn Tide
Against Communist
Influence

Move Heralds Second Day of Goering Visit in Rome

Rome, Jan. 15.—(P)—With apparent government approval, the Italian press began a campaign today against Communist influence in France, presented as a bar to effective non-intervention in the Spanish civil war.

Heralding the second day of Nazi Col-Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering's conferences with Premier Mussolini, newspapers charged Spanish front news and to further cement the two countries in anti-Communist pledges.

Consequently, usually inspired newspapers contended, any agreement signed by France to keep out of the Spanish conflict would meet with difficulty in application—because of French Communist desire to continue aid to the Spanish Valencia government.

Non-intervention also that of Germany would be British adherence to a European anti-Communist bloc.

British observers pointed out the empire is endeavoring to keep clear of either Fascism or Communism and doubted the nation would join in such a bloc.

The newspaper campaign followed a similar one begun several days ago in Germany. The combined movement was believed by Rome diplomatic circles to have a definite purpose—perhaps a prelude to Italo-German demand that an international commission be placed along the French frontier to see that any non-intervention agreement is enforced.

Goering, believed here to sound out Italian views on German colonial ambitions and to further cement the two countries in anti-Communist pledges.

Look time out today to watch Mussolini in a fencing exhibition.

Italy's answer to Britain's latest appeal for enforcement of Spanish non-intervention is being withheld.

It is said, until Goering and Di Duce have determined definitely upon a common course of action.

Fascist circles said the two were believed drafting an invitation to Britain to join an anti-Communist front. If Britain declines, these sources asserted, Germany and Italy feel free to support openly the Spanish Insurgents—whose government they have recognized as the legal regime in Spain.

A like invitation, it was said, would be extended to France but participation by that nation was considered most doubtful.

Deputies Give Blum
Power to Halt Flow
Of War Volunteers

Action to Stay Out of Spain
Must Be Matched by
Other Nations

Paris, Jan. 15.—(P)—The Chamber of Deputies voted unanimously tonight—591 to 0—to give Premier Leon Blum power to halt the flow of volunteers from or through France to the Spanish civil war.

Heading the Premier's warning that the volunteers question had become one of "saving Europe from war," the deputies responded overwhelmingly to his appeal to show France "will for peace, good will and respect for international agreements."

The vote was on the government's bill to punish French volunteers at the discretion of judges and to impose fines of 10,000 francs ($460) and prison sentences of six months or a year on persons involved in the enlistment of volunteers.

The bill fixed a time limit of six months, as it was hoped the Spanish conflict would be over within that time. Premier Blum promised its powers would not be invoked unless other nations took like action.

The Premier was expected to obtain the senate's approval of the measure early next week.

Before the vote M. Blum told the chamber he needed the powers embodied in the bill as the only way to give reciprocity from Germany. Armed with such authority he would press demands that Germany and other interested nations impose similar bans.

MARTIN JOHNSON WILL BE BURIED IN KANSAS

Enid, Okla., Jan. 15.—(P)—Martin Johnson, famous jungle explorer, fatally injured in an airplane crash near Los Angeles Tuesday, will be buried in Chanute, Kansas, his sister, Mrs. J. R. Critts, said today.

Mrs. Johnson prefers the home town burial, Mrs. Critts said after telephoning the former's mother, Mrs. W. S. Leighty, in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Johnson is recovering there from injuries suffered in the crash, which killed a second passenger and injured 11 persons.

Mrs. Critts said Johnson's body would remain in Los Angeles until his equally-famous wife is able to accompany it east.

Eighteen-Day Truce Is Declared On Far Flung GMC Auto Strike Front

Detroit, Jan. 15.—(AP)—An 18-day truce prevailed on the far-flung General Motors Automotive strike tonight, leaving for negotiators the composition of widely-varying viewpoints necessary for a permanent settlement.

Conferences between officials of the giant automobile concern and leaders of the United Automobile Workers of America will start Monday, after "sit-down" strikers occupying corporation plants have vacated.

The agreement which removed this obstacle to peace negotiations provided that General Motors will not try to reopen strike-closed plants nor will it remove equipment or materials "except for export."

Governor Frank Murphy announced the truce at Lansing before dawn today as the close of a 17-hour conference in his offices to which he had summoned William S. Knudsen, executive vice-president of General Motors, and their associates.

In the wake of the truce today were these developments:

Martin and Knudsen will meet Saturday to arrange details of the settlement conferences starting at 11 a. m. Monday in General Motors offices.

The union announced plans for a brass band to lead "sit-downers" out of plants at Anderson, Ind., Detroit and Flint, Mich.

National Guardsmen 2,300 strong quartered at Flint since rioting and bloodshed outside a Fisher body plant held by "sit-down" strikers Monday, received orders for gradual demobilization.

General Motors announced it would reopen on a reduced basis. In order to alleviate "distress," some plants closed by parts shortages, some plants closed by parts shortages.

Varying reaction to the truce came from the strikers engaged in "sit-downs" although some hailed it as a union victory.

Martin, declaring the agreement constituted recognition of the union, hailed it as forming "a basis for real collective bargaining."

General Motors, pledging there will be "no discrimination" against any employee because of union affiliation, added that "no rights of any workers not represented by the union will be prejudiced in any of the proposed negotiations."

At Washington John L. Lewis, chairman of the committee for industrial organization, which is backing the automotive strikes as well as those tying up the flat glass industry, termed the armistice "eminently satisfactory."

Secretary Perkins, whose labor department conciliator James F. Dwyer, participated in the Lansing conference, said the agreement offered a "practical basis for negotiations" and telegraphed Governor Murphy that he had done a "magnificent job."

The eight union demands, made Jan. 4, on which the corporation and labor representatives will bargain Monday, are:

1. A national conference between company officials and U. A. W. A. leaders to discuss and bargain collectively between General Motors and its employees.

2. Abolition of all "piece-work systems of pay."

3. A 30-hour week, six-hour work day and pay and a half for overtime.

4. Establishment of a "minimum rate of pay commensurate with an American standard of living."

5. Reinstatement of all employees "unjustly discharged."

6. Seniority rights based upon length of service.

7. Recognition of the U. A. W. A. as the "sole bargaining agency" between General Motors and its employees.

8. Mutual agreement on speed of production "by the management and a union committee in all General Motors plants."

The union president, Martin, announced he planned to visit as many of the strike-occupied plants as possible to explain terms of the truce to the "sit-downers."

NEW CROP INSURANCE
BILL IS SENT BACK

Washington, Jan. 15.—(P)—The new crop insurance bill emerged from the agriculture department today, only to be swiftly sent back for an overhauling.

It was found to conflict with the current efforts to reorganize the government, while the president wants to place all existing independent agencies under the regular departments heading up in the cabinet.

Their conclusions were not disclosed, but it was understood a new draft making federal crop insurance a function of the agriculture department would be drawn and both bills submitted to President Roosevelt for his choice.

PHONE NUMBER LINKS COMPANY WITH FLOGGING

Guard Officer Was Supposedly In Pay
Of Railroad

Officials of Alabama T. C. I.
Deny Knowledge of Number

Washington, Jan. 15.—(P)—Senate investigators used a hitherto mysterious telephone number today to link the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company with a National Guard officer whom an Alabama flogging victim had identified as one of his assailants.

The number, Birmingham 3-2664, had bobbed up repeatedly as the Senate civil liberties committee sought details of the abduction and flogging of Joseph S. Gelders, southern representative of the National Committee for the Defense of Political Prisoners.

Officials of "T. C. I." as the company, subsidiary of U. S. Steel, is known in Alabama, were asked yesterday if they were familiar with the number. They said they had no knowledge of it. One of them was Borden Burr, T. C. I. counsel who introduced Alfred E. Smith at the famous Liberty League dinner a year ago.

Chairman LaFollette produced today a letter from the telephone company at Birmingham, saying it was the number of an unlisted telephone in the T. C. I. offices and a witness told of using it repeatedly to reach Captain Walter J. "Crack" Hanna, the officer in question.

Previous testimony had been that Hanna was "supposed to be connected with T. C. I." as a special investigator in labor matters. An investigator for the state police who handled the Gelders case attributed failure to obtain an indictment of Hanna to fear that it might antagonize the T. C. I. company.

Yelverton Cowherd, Alabama attorney, and today's principal witness, told of a conversation with Hanna on the day of the flogging. He said Hanna asked "what are we going to do about that So-and-So Gelders," that that time awaiting for the release of a young Communist held in jail without bail under a law since declared unconstitutional.

Another witness, Carey E. Haigler, employed by T. C. I., Birmingham, testified Hanna had told him he was chief of detectives told the committee that after the Gelders flogging representative of the company conferred with the chief of police who later said he believed "there'll be no more whippings in this district."

At Washington John L. Lewis, chairman of the committee for industrial organization, which is backing the automotive strikes as well as those tying up the flat glass industry, termed the armistice "eminently satisfactory."

Admiral Byrd Has Uniform Troubles; Taken For Porter

Ogden, Utah, Jan. 15.—(P)—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, twice mistaken for a railway station attendant, "guessed" today he had to do something about his uniform.

"Some time ago, at the Union station in Kansas City," he said, "a woman found a purse and handed it to me to return to the owner."

"That wasn't so bad, but this morning as the train pulled into Ogden another woman asked me where Provo was and whether her ticket would take her to Salt Lake City."

"The climax came when I arrived here slightly ahead of time, and Ogden city officials sent to meet me found me strolling around the station. I could tell by their hesitancy they also suspected I might be a uniformed railway employee."

Byrd, 52, who has dedicated his life to lopping branches of the spreading tree of government, watched with vexation today while the Senate gave a long lease of life on one of the largest boughs.

Vainly, Byrd struggled to change a resolution extending the lending powers of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation until June 30, 1939.

He argued for a one and a half year extension, contending that if the RFC's life were prolonged further, 14 other lending bureaus would be treated likewise. This, he said, would mean a long delay for his cherished plan to abolish some agencies, merge others, and cut the cost.

But the Senate passed the administration resolution, with only Byrd dissenting. Subsequently, the House Banking Committee also approved it.

Jose H. Jones, chairman of the RFC, was lent billions to tide business and financial institutions over the depression, said the committee.

"We propose to make the RFC a standby agency in case of need."

The Senate fight produced the rare phenomenon of a disagreement between Byrd and his colleague from Virginia, Senator Glass. The latter, who also is an advocate of economy, denied the RFC extension would interfere with government reorganization plans or set "a precedent

A Sound Farm Program

A sound financial program for farm families of Illinois has been outlined by L. J. Norton, professor of agricultural economics at the University of Illinois.

Prof. Norton stresses the need for good investment and wise use of credit along with the use of the latest hints on food and clothing.

Points of prime importance in the program listed are:

First, borrowed funds should not be excessive in relation to income or hand.

Second, interest charges on borrowed funds should not be excessive in view of the borrower's income.

Third, every loan should be set up to provide a definite program for repayment suited to the income of the borrower.

Fourth, in all borrowing the future trend of prices should be considered.

Fifth, borrowed money should be limited to productive use except in emergencies or by families who can pay regardless of conditions.

Sixth, bank credit is normally cheaper than merchant dealer or finance company credit.

Seventh, one's payment record is an important factor in one's ability to borrow.

Eighth, in emergencies it is important to have a creditor who can and will recognize adverse conditions.

Ninth, where there is heavy indebtedness there should be adequate insurance.

Prof. Norton's suggestions are sound and practical, and it is believed the letter would do much to enlighten on the finances of many farmers who have had tough times for a number of years.

In fact, all of the farmers and demonstrations that have taken place this week at the Farm and Home Work program at the state university, have been of a nature to benefit the lot of the farmer and his family.

Morgan county men and women also attended for sessions to date and will be paid for making the trip.

A City on Guard

The warning of Dr. Friedrich Engelbach that an epidemic of smallpox is prevalent in communities not far from Jacksonville and his suggestion that persons not having been vaccinated submit to the treatment at once, no doubt will be met with cooperation on the part of the public. No one wants to have smallpox, no one wants to see a serious epidemic of the disease in this community.

The public will do well to heed the warning and follow the advice of official whose job it is to guard communities against increase of disease.

Smallpox today has no serious outbreaks of contagion. Dr. Engelbach's statement making prompt vaccination was made in the way of a precaution. The best time to head off an epidemic is before it gets a foothold. Jacksonville should be kept free from dangerous maladies at all times, and the most certain method is to comply with advice of competent authorities who have made a study of the subject.

There are a few persons who still have objections to vaccination as a preventive for disease. But they have become fewer in recent years. Science has clearly demonstrated that it can control and wipe out disease if given a chance. There are few now who choose to gamble with illness because they do not like the idea of being vaccinated.

The physician's statement probably will result in a large number of vaccinations, particularly among school children whose parents do not wish them to take unnecessary chances of falling victims to disease. Prompt action will, no doubt, prove a deterrent to conditions that might become serious if permitted to go unheeded.

Remember the Slogan

"All For The Good of Jacksonville!" That slogan was generally adopted here during the first administration of E. E. Chabree as mayor a number of years ago.

The slogan was painted on the walls of the city council chamber. Many persons pointed to it with pride. It was a good slogan, simple and sincere.

That slogan is as workable today as it was 15 or 20 years ago. It is a sound one, and if lived up to by officials and citizens will carry the city far toward solving its problems and carrying on its business.

Thirty-two candidates have entered the municipal primaries. There are nine candidates for mayor, two candidates for city clerk and one candidate for treasurer, in addition to a large field of citizens who aspire to hold seats in the council.

How would the old slogan apply in their cases? Would some candidates fit into the theme of the slogan, and others fail to meet the test? Surely all of the 32 would not measure up to the requirement, "All For The Good of Jacksonville."

It is the job of Jacksonville citizens to single out those men who have the most to offer in the way of service to the city. In the list of candidates who have filed are men entirely qualified to take over the business of city government. There are others who, because of various reasons, are not capable of handling the responsibility. Jacksonville voters must put the microscope on this large field of aspirants and pick out the biggest, most able men of the lot.

In so doing the slogan "All For the Good of Jacksonville" may be safely used as a measuring stick. If a candidate measures up to the demand of that slogan, he is entitled to fill the office of mayor or serve in the council.

An Old Covered Bridge

An old covered timber bridge south of Oquawka, Ill., a rather common type 40 and 50 years ago is being restored at the expense of the State of Illinois, and within a short time will look as it did more than a half century ago. In recent years lack of maintenance robbed the old structure of both strength and beauty.

After making a thorough study of the bridge, engineers of the state highway department worked out an intelligently conceived program of improvement which does not detract in any way from the historic worth of the structure but insures that it will stand for many decades as a viable memorial to the pioneer method of bridging streams.

Because these covered bridges are now few and far between, the state is restoring this bridge within the confines of a small state park which is due for development in the future. Development work on the grounds around the bridge which crosses Henderson creek between Oquawka and Gladstone, will likely get under way this spring and summer.

There are no covered bridges in Morgan county. The typical rustic structures disappeared from this section many years ago. The Mississippi, Big Sandy and Indian creeks were spanned by covered bridges at several places in Morgan Scott and adjacent counties. But the use of steel and stone replaced them for these picturesque, romantic bridges. They passed into history even before the advent of the automobile.

What Is An Infant?

After pondering in its mazy, uncharted sanctum the price of baby clothes, the United States court of claims and patent appeals has set for all time the question: What is an infant?

With the aid of four dictionaries, none of which agreed, the court also decided what was in the mind of former President Hoover concerning infants, when, in 1932, he set the import duty on baby clothes at 75 percent of their value.

Associate Judge Oscar E. Bland, writing a 14 page decision for his fellow jurists, held that any child under six years old is an infant insofar as the cost of baby clothes is concerned. His decision said that is what Hoover thought, too.

Judge Elmer J. Garret, dissenting, wrote a minority opinion in which he said he was firmly convinced that when a baby becomes two years old, it ceases to be an infant, and is, in fact, as well as in law, a child. Since he was overruled four to one, his ideas concerning babies didn't count.

The decision was a big victory for the government and a real blow for two New York department stores, which pleaded in vain for a two year age limit on infants of both sexes.

On June 11, 1932, it developed, Hoover set the import duty on infants' outer clothing at 75 percent, and on children's ditto, 50 percent. That started a baby fight which has raged ever since.

The importers contended that infants became children on their second birthday. They held therefore that the duty on clothes for them when they attained that age should be reduced to 50 percent.

The government said "no sir, not on a pile of baby clothes. An infant is an infant until it is six years old and the tax on its clothes, when imported must remain at 75 percent."

Railroads of Yesterday

That venerable anecdote about the frogs in the drought area that were two years old before they learned to swim is almost counter-balanced by the frequent reports of children who have been in almost every state of the union without ever having ridden on a passenger train.

We venture to say that there are scores of boys and girls, even young men and women, in Morgan county, who have never ridden on a train. They have traveled, to be sure, but the traveling was done in the family automobile or by bus.

The railroads are taking due cognizance of this gap in the education of present day youngsters, and at the same time are catering to the yearning of the oldtimers for the sights, sounds, smells and joys of the trains of their youth.

BREAKING UP THE JAM ALONG THE POTOMAC

When the Pennsylvania railroad announced a first midwest "off the beaten track" excursion, recently, 450 persons succeeded in making reservations for a 355 mile trip at $3 each.

There were no Pullman cars. Old fashioned gas coaches were the equipment. A puffing locomotive pulled the train, stopped at every possible opportunity, whistled melodiously at crossings, rained its stinging heat and cool air, and whirled at each fresh start, its wheels clacked over one too smooth tracks, emitted smoke and sparks for the passengers' eyes, and showed its iron railroading as she once was, unvarnished.

They were contained, finally, at a modern round house where the latest as well as the older types of locomotives were stabled up on the track for their inspection. Then they were swept along on the last lap of their trip to the starting place at more than 75 miles an hour.

Good shipmanship and good showmanship were combined in such an excursion. It calked in on the "quaintness" value of a departed brand of service provided a thrill for the way-back-whiners.

Some may have taken the excursion for the sake of reminiscence. Others may explain it as did the fellow who pounded his thumb with a hammer: "It feels so good when you stop."

Iron Treatments Benefit Victims of Anemia Almost Immediately

By DR. MORRIS FISHER, Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Among other forms of anemia due to deficiency of iron are those arising from multiple causes, particularly in women, but occasionally also in men. For many years a common form of anemia, known as chlorosis, affected young girls. This form has become much less common in recent years, since the way of living for girls has changed greatly. The modern girl gets plenty of outdoor air and exercise, and unless she is dieting is likely to eat a fairly well-balanced diet.

The condition also is exceedingly common in women between 40 and 50 and is associated with the changes that occur in the woman of that age. As this type of anemia develops, the patient is likely to have a pale complexion, dry skin, and occasionally painful cracks around the corners of the mouth. Not infrequently too, the tongue becomes red and sore and the fingernails crack easily.

When the blood is examined in these cases, it is found that color and amount of red coloring matter are low. In this type of case, the patient almost immediately begins to improve when she receives a sufficient amount of a good iron preparation.

Mrs. C. E. Scott, 125 Westminster street, was severely shaken up Friday morning when she was knocked down in a car collision which occurred on the square in front of the Elliott State Bank. Mrs. Scott had alighted from the car, which Dr. Scott was driving.

A machine driven by Ed Lowery of Pittsfield, struck the Scott car as it was parked. The impact occurred just as Mrs. Scott was getting out of the car, and its force caused her to fall. She received no bad injuries, but suffered somewhat from shock.

Ice on the pavement caused the brakes on the Lowery car to be ineffective. Both machines were slightly damaged.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

F.D.R. Keeps Reorganization Details 'Under His Hat'

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal and Courier Washington Correspondent

Washington.—A Negro messenger recently was observed staggering across Pennsylvania avenue toward the White House, heavily laden with a pile of bound, typewritten pages about two feet high.

If it had been known in time what he was carrying, he almost certainly would have been waylaid by ten cabinet members, a hundred bureau chiefs and commissioners, and a small army of other New Deal officials.

For the messenger's load was the report of the president's committee on reorganization of government—consisting of Louis Brownlow, Charles E. Merriam, and Luther Gulick.

Significance of this doesn't rest in the curious fact that the report wasn't told in a taxi or a government wagon, but in the insistence of those who saw the pile that only a small portion of the committee's actual report has been transmitted to Congress.

Roosevelt gave Congress only forty-seven pages, which laid down general principles and outlined specifically only those broad, major changes recommended by the committee which require congressional action.

President Marking Time

The actual program for regrouping more than a hundred government agencies, commissions, and bureaus—including such big ones as WPA, PWA, Social Security, CCC, and TVA—there is every reason to believe is locked up in the president's desk for use after Congress gives him power to use it.

An enormous amount of subterranean lobbying, directed at the White House already has begun. Many officials suspect they know what's in the suppressed bulk of the Brownlow report and are bringing such pressure as they can in cases where they don't like it.

Roosevelt seeks to give the impression that, aside from creation of the Social Welfare and Public Works Departments, the White House secretariat expansion, and other phases of his congressional message, the program isn't worked out—implying that nothing else is a final decision.

"You ask me where X bureau is going," he told correspondents, "and I say the Lord only knows—I don't I shall keep an open mind until after Congress passes this bill. Guesses will be as usual, 90 per cent wrong."

Puts Damper on Byrd

Neatly and as if without guile, the president, in his special press conference on reorganization, sought to spike the guns of Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, chairman on reorganization who keeps insisting that hundreds of millions of dollars can be saved through pruning and reorganization.

Explaining why no appreciable saving could be made without elimination or curtailment of federal functions—by "doing less work" which is not a matter of reorganization—the president suggested that by consolidation of overlapping functions the federal government probably could save proportionally as much as states which had reorganized their governments "with great public acclaim."

He mentioned New York, Maine, Virginia, and other states. Then he said that in no case did any state reduce expenses more than 14 per cent through reorganization, or less than 1 per cent.

Byrd's chief claim as a reorganization expert rests on the fact that, as governor, he supervised a consolidation in Virginia which merged 95 departments into 11 departments and two agencies.

Roosevelt didn't say whether Virginia had saved 14 per cent or 1 per cent, but no correspondent was so dull-witted as to miss the point.

Needs Chance to Think

Explaining the need for a half dozen executive assistants in the White House, the president said a huge amount of his time was taken up with conferences with cabinet members and other officials who had no opportunity to communicate back and forth except through personal contact.

"I don't get enough time to think," he complained.

Pointing to the rare paragraph in the Brownlow report which said the executive assistants should "possess high competence, great physical vigor, and a passion for anonymity," the president added:

"I want the kind of man who, when you meet him and say 'Good morning,' will reply 'I don't know.'"

I have two men in mind for these jobs now. They are John Doe and Richard Roe."

Why Hit the Ceiling When the Pavement is Closer? Better Stay Home

New York.—(AP)—In a world where Scotland gradually is moving toward Ireland and snow falls at San Pedro, Calif., the eastern seaboard kept in step Friday by exhibiting a full acre of pansies in full bloom in January.

At least six weeks of abnormally warm weather, punctuated by not one good snowfall, have brought signs of a premature spring up and down the coast. Even New England, normally well blanketed with snow long prior to mid-January, has had to revise its calendar.

Crocuses and lilacs bloomed almost everywhere in the metropolitan district of New York, and robins, bluebirds and at least one Maryland yellowthroat sang from the leafless branches of trees.

The pansies bloomed on a farm in Clifton, N. J.

The mercury shot up to 65 degrees here at 6 a. m. Friday.

Jacksonville, too, has its weather phenomena. Friday morning pavements were a glare of ice and drivers of cars were never quite certain whether the direction they meant to travel would be the one their cars took. Brakes were put on the cars at the factories, but owners wondered whether the added expense was really necessary.

There are no lilacs or pansies in bloom here, but those who venture too nonchalantly as pedestrians may see stars. For the information of those who may not have noticed it, this is a typical winter day. We have no reason to brag on the climate; it is normal. The temperature here Friday morning was three above, lower than that in Chicago, which is getting to be a habit.

For conversation in his home, the ordinary man uses about 2,500 words.

Edwin D. Clark Dies Yesterday Morning At Carrollton Home

Retired Business Man of Greene County Succumbs; Funeral Sunday

Carrollton.—Edwin D. Clark, 68, prominent retired grocer of this community, died at 2 o'clock Friday morning at the home of Jacob Frech. The body will lie in state at the Mehl & son funeral home until the hour of the service, 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, at the Presbyterian church. Services will be conducted by Rev. L. D. Stone, with interment in the city cemetery.

Mr. Clark was born in Plainfield, N. J., April 14, 1868, and came to Greene county when a boy. He conducted a grocery store for many years at Greenfield and later came to Carrollton, where he had one of the largest grocery establishments. He retired from business 12 years ago.

The intervening time he spent in Missouri, Mississippi and California, until 15 months ago, when he returned to Carrollton. He was married at Corydon, Iowa, Dec. 24, 1886, to Miss Anna Mary Kirk, who preceded him in death in 1926.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Ella B. Scheffeld of Pontiac, Mich.; a brother, Fred L. Clark of Hutchinson, Kan.; one grandson, Dr. Loren C. Scheffeld, of Pontiac, Mich., and a granddaughter, Miss Ella Virginia Clark, of Carrollton.

It has been estimated that England spends $200,000,000 a year on sweets. Almost 350,000 tons of candy are consumed in that country annually.

A Sound Farm Program

A sound financial program for farm families of Illinois has been outlined by L. J. Norton, professor of agricultural economics at the University of Illinois.

Prof. Norton stresses the need for good investment and wise use of credit along with the use of the latest hints on food and clothing.

Points of prime importance in the program listed are:

First, borrowed funds should not be excessive in relation to money on hand.

Second, interest charges on borrowed funds should not be overlarge in view of the borrower's income.

Third, every loan should be set up to provide a definite program for repayment suited to the income of the borrower.

Fourth, in all borrowing the future trend of prices should be considered.

Fifth, borrowed money should be limited to productive uses except in emergencies or by families who can pay regardless of conditions.

Sixth, bank credit is normally cheaper than merchant, dealer or finance company credit.

Seventh, one's paying record is an important factor in one's ability to borrow.

Eighth, in emergencies it is important to have a creditor who can and will recognize adverse conditions.

Ninth, where there is heavy indebtedness there should be adequate insurance.

Prof. Norton's suggestions are sound and practical, and if followed to the letter would do much to straighten out the finances of many farmers who have had tough going for a number of years.

In fact, all of the lectures and demonstrations that have taken place this week at the Farm and Home Week program at the state university, have been of a nature to benefit the lot of the farmer and his family. Morgan county men and women who attended the sessions no doubt feel well repaid for making the trip.

A City on Guard

The warning of Dr. Friedrich Engelbach that an epidemic of smallpox is prevalent in communities not far from Jacksonville, and his suggestion that persons not having been vaccinated submit to the treatment at once, no doubt will be met with cooperation on the part of the public. No one wants to have smallpox; no one wants to see a serious epidemic of the disease in this community. The public will do well to heed the warning, and follow the advice of officials whose job it is to guard communities against inroads of disease.

Jacksonville today has no serious outbreaks of contagion. Dr. Engelbach's statement advising prompt vaccination was made in the way of a precaution. The best time to head off an epidemic is before it gets a foothold. Jacksonville should be kept free from dangerous maladies at all times, and the most certain method is to comply with advice of competent authorities, who have made a study of the subject.

There are a few persons who still have objections to vaccination as a preventative for disease. But they have become fewer in recent years. Science has clearly demonstrated that it can control and wipe out disease if given a chance. There are few now who choose to gamble with illness because they do not like the idea of being vaccinated.

The physician's statement probably will result in a large number of vaccinations, particularly among school children whose parents do not wish them to take unnecessary chances of falling victims to disease. Prompt action will, no doubt, prove a deterrent to conditions that might become serious if permitted to go unheeded.

Remember the Slogan

"All For The Good of Jacksonville!" That slogan was generally adopted here during the first administration of E. E. Crabtree as mayor, a number of years ago.

The slogan was painted on the walls of the city council chamber. Many persons pointed to it with pride. It was a good slogan, simple and sincere. That slogan is as workable today as it was 15 or 20 years ago. It is a sound one, and if lived up to by officials and citizens will carry the city far toward solving its problems and carrying on its business.

Thirty-two candidates have entered the municipal primaries. There are nine candidates for mayor, two candidates for city clerk and one candidate for treasurer, in addition to a large field of citizens who aspire to hold seats in the council.

How would the old slogan apply in their cases? Would some candidates fit into the theme of the slogan, and others fail to meet the test? Surely all of the 32 would not measure up to the requirement, "All For The Good of Jacksonville."

It is the job of Jacksonville citizens to single out these men who have the most to offer in the way of service to the city. In the list of candidates who have filed are men entirely qualified to take over the business of city government. There are others who, because of various reasons, are not capable of handling the responsibility. Jacksonville voters must put the microscope on this large field of aspirants and pick out the biggest, most able men of the lot.

In so doing, the slogan "All For the Good of Jacksonville," may be safely used as a measuring stick. If a candidate measures up to the demand of that slogan, he is entitled to fill the office of mayor or serve in the council.

An Old Covered Bridge

An old covered timber bridge south of Oquawka, Ill., a rather common sight 40 and 50 years ago, is being restored at the expense of the State of Illinois, and within a short time will look as it did more than a half century ago. In recent years lack of maintenance robbed the old structure of both strength and beauty.

After making a thorough study of the bridge, engineers of the state highway department worked out an intelligently conceived program of improvement which does not detract in any way from the historic worth of the structure, but insures that it will stand for many decades as a visible memorial to the pioneer method of bridging streams.

Because these covered bridges are now few and far between, the state is preserving this bridge within the confines of a small state park which is due for development in the future. Development work on the ground around the bridge which crosses Henderson creek between Oquawka and Gladstone, will likely get under way this spring and summer.

There are no covered bridges in Morgan county. The typically rustic structures disappeared from this section many years ago. The Mauvasterre, Big Sandy and Indian creeks once were spanned by covered bridges at several places in Morgan, Scott and adjacent counties. But the use of steel and stone spelled doom for these picturesque, romantic bridges. They passed into history even before the advent of the automobile.

What Is An Infant?

After pondering in its mahogany-lined sanctum the price of baby clothes, the United States court of customs and patent appeals has settled for all time the question: What is an infant?

With the aid of four dictionaries, none of which agreed, the court also decided what was in the mind of former President Hoover concerning infants, when, in 1932, he set the import duty on baby clothes at 75 percent of their value.

Associate Judge Oscar E. Bland, writing a 14 page decision for his fellow jurists, held that any child under six years old is an infant insofar as the cost of baby clothes is concerned. His decision said that is what Hoover thought, too.

Judge Finis J. Garet, dissenting, wrote a minority opinion in which he said he was firmly convinced that when a baby becomes two years old, it ceases to be an infant, and is, in fact as well as in law, a child. Since he was overruled four to one, his ideas concerning babies didn't count.

The decision was a big victory for the government and a real blow for two New York department stores, which pleaded in vain for a two year age limit on infants of both sexes.

On June 11, 1932, it developed, Hoover set the import duty on infants' outer clothing at 75 percent, and on children's ditty, 50 percent. That started a baby fight which has raged ever since.

The importers contended that infants became children on their second birthday. They held therefore that the duty on clothes for them when they attained that age should be reduced to 50 percent.

The government said "no sir, not on a pile of baby clothes. An infant is an infant until it is six years old and the tax on its clothes, when imported, must remain at 75 percent."

Railroads of Yesterday

That venerable anecdote about the frogs in the drought area that were two years old before they learned to swim, is almost counter-balanced by the frequent reports of children who have been in almost every state of the union without ever having ridden on a passenger train.

We venture to say that there are scores of boys and girls, even young men and women, in Morgan county, who have never ridden on a train. They have traveled, to be sure, but the traveling was done in the family automobile or by bus.

The railroads are taking due cognizance of this gap in the education of present day youngsters, and at the same time are catering to the yearning of the oldtimers for the sights, sounds, smells and jolts of the trains of their youth.

BREAKING UP THE JAM ALONG THE POTOMAC

When the Pennsylvania railroad announced a first midwest "off the beaten track" excursion, recently, 450 persons succeeded in making reservations for a 355 mile "rip at $3 each."

There were no Pullman cars. Old fashioned day coaches were the equipment. A puffing locomotive pulled the train, stopped at every possible opportunity, whistled melodiously at crossings, clanged its swinging bell and tooted a shrill warning at each fresh start; clinkety-clanked over none too smooth tracks, emitted smoke and cinders for the passengers' eyes, and showed them railroading as she once was railroaded.

They were entertained, finally, at a modern round house where the latest as well as the older types of locomotives were steamed up on the track for their inspection. Then they were swept along on the last lap of their trip to the starting place at more than 75 miles an hour.

Good salesmanship and good showmanship were combined in such an excursion. It cashed in on the "quaintness" value of a departed brand of service; provided a thrill for the way-back-wheners.

Some may have taken the excursion for the sake of reminiscence. Others may explain it as did the fellow who pounded his thumb with a hammer: "It feels so good when you stop."

The iron treatment usually is given over long periods of time. It is well to have it prescribed by a doctor, since there are many forms of iron adaptable to different types of cases.

A fairly well-balanced diet, with plenty of meats, such as liver and kidneys, vegetables, and fresh fruits, is especially important in these cases.

Some people have a little difficulty with their digestion when they take iron, but usually this trouble is temporary and the condition improves promptly after a few days.

Anemias of this type fortunately are seldom, if ever, fatal. The condition is usually discovered promptly because of the appearance and activities of the person affected, and the treatment is so definite that any competent doctor can secure prompt improvement if the patient will co-operate.

In addition to this type of anemia, there are also deficiencies of the blood which result from infection with hookworm, disturbances of digestive functions, ulcers, cancers, and other conditions in which there may be a steady loss of blood, accompanied by intoxication.

In all these cases, the treatment must be applied not only to the anemia, but also to the complicating factor of disease.

Neatly and as if without guile, the president, in his special press conference on reorganization, sought to spike the guns of Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, chairman on reorganization, who keeps insisting that hundreds of millions of dollars can be saved through pruning and reorganization.

Explaining why no appreciable saving could be made without elimination or curtailment of federal functions—by "doing less work" which is not a matter of reorganization—the president suggested that by consolidation of overlapping functions the federal government probably could save proportionately as much as states which had reorganized their governments "with great public acclaim."

He mentioned New York, Maine, Virginia, and other states. Then he said that in no case did any state reduce expenses more than 11 per cent through reorganization, or less than 4 per cent.

Byrd's chief claim as a reorganization expert rests on the fact that, as governor, he supervised a consolidation in Virginia which merged 95 departments into 11 departments and two agencies.

Roosevelt didn't say whether Virginia had saved 11 per cent or 1 per cent, but no correspondent was so dull-witted as to miss the point.

Needs Chance to Think

Explaining the need for a half dozen executive assistants in the White House, the president said a huge amount of his time was taken up with conferences with cabinet members and other officials who had no opportunity to communicate to him and forth except through personal contact.

"I don't get enough time to think," he complained.

Pointing to the rare paragraph in the Brownlow report which said the executive assistants should "possess high competence, great physical vigor, and a passion for anonymity," the president added:

"I want the kind of man who, when you meet him and say 'Good morning!', will reply, 'I don't know.'"

I have two men in mind for these jobs now. They are John Doe and Richard Roe."

Why Hit the Ceiling When the Pavement is Closer? Better Stay Home

New York.—(AP)—In a world where Scotland gradually is moving toward Ireland and snow falls at San Pedro, Calif., the eastern seaboard kept in step Friday by exhibiting a full acre of pansies in full bloom in January.

At least six weeks of abnormally warm weather, punctuated by not one good snowfall, have brought signs of a premature spring up and down the coast. Even New England, normally well blanketed with snow long prior to mid-January, has had to revise its calendar.

Crocuses and lilacs bloomed almost everywhere in the metropolitan district of New York, and robins, bluebirds and at least one Maryland yellowthroat sang from the leafless branches of trees.

The pansies bloomed on a farm in Clifton, N. J.

The mercury shot up to 65 degrees here at 6 a. m., Friday.

Jacksonville, too, has its weather phenomena. Friday morning pavements were a glare of ice and drivers of cars were never quite certain whether the direction they meant to travel would be the one their cars took. Brakes were put on the cars at the factories but owners wondered whether the added expense was really necessary.

There are no lilacs or pansies in bloom here, but those who venture too nonchalantly as pedestrians may see stars. For the information of those who may not have noticed it, this is a typical winter day. We have no reason to brag on the climate; it is normal. The temperature here Friday morning was three above, lower than that in Chicago, which is getting to be a habit.

For conversation in his home, the ordinary man uses about 2,500 words.

Edwin D. Clark Dies Yesterday Morning At Carrollton Home

Retired Business Man of Greene County Succumbs; Funeral Sunday

Carrollton.—Edwin D. Clark, 88, prominent retired grocer of this community, died at 2 o'clock Friday morning at the home of Jacob Frech. The body will lie in state at the Mehrl & son funeral home until the hour of the service, 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, at the Presbyterian church. Services will be conducted by Rev. L. D. Stone, with interment in the city cemetery.

Mr. Clark was born in Plainfield, N. J., April 14, 1848, and came to Greene county when a boy. He conducted a grocery store for many years at Greenfield and later came to Carrollton, where he had one of the largest grocery establishments. He retired from business 12 years ago.

The intervening time he spent in Missouri, Mississippi and California, until 15 months ago, when he returned to Carrollton. He was married at Corydon, Iowa, Dec. 24, 1868, to Miss Anna Mary Kirk, who preceded him in death in 1926.

He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Ella B. Scheffeld, of Pontiac, Mich.; a brother, Fred L. Clark, of Hutchinson, Kan.; one grandson, Dr. Loren C. Scheffeld, of Pontiac, Mich., and a granddaughter, Miss Ella Virginia Clark, of Carrollton.

It has been estimated that England spends $200,000,000 a year on sweets. Almost 350,000 tons of candy are consumed in that country annually.

Parked Car Breaks Loose and Fatally Injures Its Owner

Clarence E. Adams, Grafton, Dies After Accident on Illinois River Bank

Jerseyville — Funeral services for Clarence Elmer Adams of Grafton will be held Saturday afternoon in Jerseyville at two o'clock from the Jennings Brothers funeral parlors, and the interment will be in the I.O.O.F. cemetery at Grafton.

Adams died at five o'clock Wednesday afternoon, January 13th, of injuries received Tuesday night at his home near the Grafton city limits, when the car he was parking broke loose from its position on the river bank and ran over him.

Following his death, the body was brought to Jerseyville to the Jennings Brothers funeral parlors where an inquest was conducted by Dr. H. H. Seely Thursday morning. The jury returned a verdict of death by accident while endeavoring to park an automobile.

Mrs. Adams testified that her husband accompanied her home after the show at Grafton. She got out of the car carrying their two year old daughter Velma Lucille, and went down the river bank to the gang plank of their cabin boat. She went into the cabin and came out when she heard her husband's cries for help. She called in response and asked where he was. He called back and told her under the car. She ran to another house boat and obtained help.

John and Virgil Malone and Andy Holzwarth went to the assistance of Adams and removed him from under the car. They assisted him to the gang plank of his cabin boat where he was able to walk.

Adams explained to them that he had been parking his car at the top of the river bank and was putting a rock under the front wheel when the car broke away from its parking place and ran over him.

Adams is survived by his wife and two-year old daughter, Velma Lucille; his father, Elmer Adams of Normal, Ill.; three sisters, Mrs. Mayme Youngs of St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. Anne DePiger of Kewanee, Ill.; Miss Lena Adams of Golden Eagle; two brothers, Charles of Golden Eagle and John of Kewanee.

Adams was born in St. Louis, Mo., and went to Calhoun county, Illinois, with his parents when 4 years of age. He grew to manhood there and moved to Grafton four years ago where he was employed at the Keller quarry for some time. Later he had been employed on P.W.A. work at Grafton. He worked all day Tuesday prior to his fatal injuries.

Announce Marriage
Announcement was made this week of the marriage of William Stevens of Jerseyville and Miss Allene Bell of Des Moines, Iowa, which occurred Thursday afternoon, January 7th in Indianapolis, Iowa.

Justice of the Peace C. C. Briggs performed the single ring ceremony and the couple was attended by Miss Agnes Bell of Des Moines, sister of the bride, and Edward Blaezer of Jerseyville.

Mrs. Stevens is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bell of Des Moines and has been employed in that city.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy R. Stevens of Sparta, formerly of Jerseyville. He is in the employ of the Merchants' Motor Trade Company with headquarters in St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, who have been spending their honeymoon in Jerseyville, will leave Friday for St. Louis where they will reside.

To Flood Bottoms
Appraisals are being made of lands that will be inundated in Jersey and Calhoun counties when the federal dam is completed in the Mississippi river at Alton. Appraisers began their work in the lowlands of the Illinois river district this week.

The raising of the water level by the completed dam will inundate thousands of acres in western Jersey and Calhoun counties.

Much of the timber on tracts that will be covered by water has been harvested in advance.

It is predicted that small streams in western Jersey county will become a veritable fisherman's paradise. Many of the small creeks there will maintain a water level in future years that will render them well suited to various types of game fish.

Committee Begins Mapping Plans for Roosevelt's Party

Goal of 1,000 Ticket Sales Set by Chairman for This Year

Aiming at a goal of 1,000 ticket sales, the committee in charge of staging the annual Roosevelt Anniversary ball for the benefit of sufferers from infantile paralysis yesterday held a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce to outline the program which will be followed.

Warren Brockhouse, chairman of the committee for the ball to be held Saturday night, January 30 at the State Hospital, presided.

Carl Hamilton was named chairman of the publicity committee, and he will be assisted by Roy Welch, Ralph Bartlett, Carl Englund, James Walker, O. A. Smith, who were appointed to the committee.

A statement from Dr. Garm Norbury, treasurer of the local committee in charge of this city's share of the funds raised at this annual party, will be obtained in the near future.

Again, as last year, 70 per cent of the money raised at the annual party, which is held on President F. D. Roosevelt's birthday, will remain in the treasury of the local organization, to be used for relief from infantile paralysis. Local organizations are empowered to disburse the money to local or adjacent orthopedic hospitals, or for the treatment of infantile paralysis cripples. The remaining 30 per cent of the proceeds will be turned over to the National committee for delivery to the president, to be presented by him to the Georgia Warm Springs foundation for the continuation of its part in the national fight against infantile paralysis.

From this 30 per cent grants are made each year to those institutions throughout the country which are specializing in research efforts to bring the disease under control. These projects are being conducted in accordance with recommendations of a medical advisory committee, headed by Dr. George McCoy, director of the National Institute of the United States Public Health Service; Dr. Max Peet, University of Michigan; Dr. Donald B. Armstrong, vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company; and Dr. Thomas Rivers, of Rockefeller Institute.

Pleds Not Guilty To Relief Charge
Hearing Will Be Held Next Week for Solonius Logan of Chapin

Solonius Logan, of Chapin, charged with unlawfully obtaining relief, has pleaded not guilty to the charge, filed in county court, and will have a hearing next week. Information against Logan, was filed by State Attorney Oscar Zachary on facts obtained by investigators from the old age assistance office.

Logan is said to have denied that he was obtaining relief from any source when he filed his application for old age assistance. The application was granted, but subsequent investigation revealed, according to Fred E. Deatherage, supervisor of the pension plan in this county, that Logan had a son in a CCC camp. Logan is said to have denied having a son in a camp when questioned by an investigator.

Logan was brought into county court recently and after pleading not guilty had his case set for hearing Thursday. By agreement of counsel, the hearing was postponed until next week.

City Health Warden Issues Statement On Smallpox Threat

Dr. Engelbach is Advising Vaccination at Once as Preventive Measure

In an effort to guard against an outbreak of smallpox in this community, which might occur on account of the reported proximity of the disease, Dr. Friedrich Engelbach, city health warden, issued a statement Friday in which he advised vaccination of all who have not received this preventive treatment. The statement follows:

Information has been received from the State of Illinois Department of Public Health stating that an outbreak of smallpox has occurred in Beardstown and that it has already spread to Meredosia. If an extensive outbreak of smallpox is to be avoided, people residing in this and nearby communities should be vaccinated immediately. It is imperative that especially children should be vaccinated.

Frequently there is confusion in differentiating between chickenpox and smallpox. Any patient having symptoms of influenza such as chills, headache, and fever during the next few days should be isolated and watched closely for a period of three to four days after the onset. If after that time a rash appears, the case is probably one of smallpox. The case should be considered as one of smallpox until careful medical observation has determined otherwise.

Announce Marriage
Announcement was made this week of the marriage of William Stevens of Jerseyville and Miss Allene Bell of Des Moines, Iowa, which occurred Thursday afternoon, January 7th in Indianapolis, Iowa.

Justice of the Peace C. C. Briggs performed the single ring ceremony and the couple was attended by Miss Agnes Bell of Des Moines, sister of the bride, and Edward Blaezer of Jerseyville.

Mrs. Stevens is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bell of Des Moines and has been employed in that city.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy R. Stevens of Sparta, formerly of Jerseyville. He is in the employ of the Merchants' Motor Trade Company with headquarters in St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens, who have been spending their honeymoon in Jerseyville, will leave Friday for St. Louis where they will reside.

To Flood Bottoms
Appraisals are being made of lands that will be inundated in Jersey and Calhoun counties when the federal dam is completed in the Mississippi river at Alton. Appraisers began their work in the lowlands of the Illinois river district this week.

The raising of the water level by the completed dam will inundate thousands of acres in western Jersey and Calhoun counties.

Much of the timber on tracts that will be covered by water has been harvested in advance.

It is predicted that small streams in western Jersey county will become a veritable fisherman's paradise. Many of the small creeks there will maintain a water level in future years that will render them well suited to various types of game fish.

Rebuild Jackson's Home in Capital

Here is an artist's sketch of "The Hermitage," home of Andrew Jackson, first Democratic president, which is being reproduced in front of the White House to serve as the presidential reviewing stand in the Court of Honor on Inauguration day, Jan. 20. President Roosevelt himself made the suggestion that Jackson's Tennessee homestead be reproduced. Flanking the presidential reviewing stand and on nearby vantage points, grandstands have been erected to seat 23,000 spectators.

Committee Begins Mapping Plans for Roosevelt's Party

Goal of 1,000 Ticket Sales Set by Chairman for This Year

Aiming at a goal of 1,000 ticket sales, the committee in charge of staging the annual Roosevelt Anniversary ball for the benefit of sufferers from infantile paralysis yesterday held a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce to outline the program which will be followed. Warren Brockhouse, chairman of the committee for the ball to be held Saturday night, January 30 at the State Hospital, presided.

Carl Hamilton was named chairman of the publicity committee, and he will be assisted by Roy Welch, Ralph Bartlett, Carl Englund, James Walker, O. A. Smith, who were appointed to the committee.

A statement from Dr. Garm Norbury, treasurer of the local committee in charge of this city's share of the funds raised at this annual party, will be obtained in the near future.

Again, as last year, 70 per cent of the money raised at the annual party, which is held on President F. D. Roosevelt's birthday, will remain in the treasury of the local organization, to be used for relief from infantile paralysis. Local organizations are empowered to disburse the money to local or adjacent orthopedic hospitals, or for the treatment of infantile paralysis cripples. The remaining 30 per cent of the proceeds will be turned over to the National committee for delivery to the president, to be presented by him to the Georgia Warm Springs foundation for the continuation of its part in the national fight against infantile paralysis.

From this 30 per cent grants are made each year to those institutions throughout the country which are specializing in research efforts to bring the disease under control. These projects are being conducted in accordance with recommendations of a medical advisory committee, headed by Dr. George McCoy, director of the National Institute of the United States Public Health Service; Dr. Max Peet, University of Michigan; Dr. Donald B. Armstrong, vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, and Dr. Thomas Rivers, of Rockefeller Institute.

Pleads Not Guilty To Relief Charge

Hearing Will Be Held Next Week for Solonius Logan of Chapin

Solonius Logan, of Chapin, charged with unlawfully obtaining relief, has pleaded not guilty to the charge, filed in county court, and will have a hearing next week. Information against Logan, was filed by State's Attorney Oscar Zachary on facts obtained by investigators from the old age assistance office.

Logan is said to have denied that he was obtaining relief from any source when he filed his application for old age assistance. The application was granted, but subsequent investigation revealed, according to Fred E. Deatherage, supervisor of the old age plan in this county, that Logan had been in a CCC camp. Logan is said to have denied having a son in a camp when questioned by an investigator.

Logan was brought into county court recently and after pleading not guilty had his case set for hearing Thursday. By agreement of counsel, the hearing was postponed until next week.

City Health Warden Issues Statement On Smallpox Threat

Dr. Engelbach is Advising Vaccination at Once as Preventive Measure

In an effort to guard against an outbreak of smallpox in this community, which might occur on account of the reported proximity of the disease, Dr. Friedrich Engelbach, city health warden, issued a statement Friday in which he advised vaccination of all who have not received this preventive treatment. The statement follows:

Information has been received from the State of Illinois Department of Public Health stating that an outbreak of smallpox has occurred in Beardstown and that it has already spread to Meredosia. If an extensive outbreak of smallpox is to be avoided, people residing in this and nearby communities should be vaccinated immediately. It is imperative that especially children should be vaccinated.

Frequently there is confusion in differentiating between chickenpox and smallpox. Any patient having symptoms of influenza such as chills, headache, and fever during the next few days should be isolated and watched closely for a period of three to four days after the onset. If after that time a rash appears, the case is probably one of smallpox. The case should be considered as one of smallpox until careful medical observation has determined otherwise.

The State of Illinois Department of Public Health will furnish smallpox vaccine without cost to the local health department and to any physician who requests it.

Formerly Health Warden, City of Jacksonville.

Blueboys Reject Bids To Co-ed Dance; Hope to Beat McKendree

Probable Starters
McKendree Pos. Illinois

Wehmeier F. McCollum
Manis G. Scheffler
Jackel G. V. Fletcher
Kriuk G. V. Watts
Time—1 p. m. and 8:15 p. m.
Place—1 S. D. gymnasium.

Illinois College's Blueboys turned down all invitations from co-eds on the campus to attend a dance last night—they are just that serious about this business of basketball. They want to shake off the failure to hit the hoop which cost them a possible victory at Carthage, and they are not going to let late hours dim their eyesight for the game with McKendree college here tonight on the Illinois School for the Deaf boards.

Athletic Director Van Meter gave the boys permission to attend the dance but the players themselves held a caucus and decided not to attend. Van Meter yesterday received a probable starting lineup from McKendree, listing among its starters a 6 foot 7 inch center, Manis, who will be one of the biggest boys to show here until Louis Luster returns to college for the second semester of this year. The coach said he would start Charles McCollum, of Granite City, in one of the forward positions in order to find men who can keep things going and in an effort to break up the jinx which seems to have hit the Illinois short game. The Illinois College freshmen are slated to meet the Gen. City Business college team of Quakers in a curtain raiser to be played at seven o'clock.

FAN BREEZES:

Finding out why the Illinois College Blueboys failed to click at Carthage has been bothering Athletic Director LaRue Van Meter this week, and the Blueboy coach isn't certain that the trouble has been remedied permanently.

The first attack of failing to hit the hoop overcame the boys on their southern trip, but it went away with just a little work. The second attack however lasted for three games. Centenary and Mississippi colleges inflicting blows during that period. Illinois overcame McKendree and then the Hawaiians at Williamsburg, but slipped again at Carthage, losing a conference game which may mean something before the year is out.

Anyhow, the Blueboys are now on the spot. They have to win the rest of their conference games and do a little playing to get a claim on the title. Bradley has turned up with a strong outfit this year, and the Blueboys don't get a crack at them.

Jacksonville has contributed to this year's Ashland high team. Fisher, who was appointed to act as captain of the Panthers in the game against Beardstown in the Winchester tournament, played some basketball for Coach Frank Walker before moving over to the Cass county city.

Ashland went into its game with Beardstown under a severe handicap. Scarlet fever took "Lefty" Mullin out of the line-up, and the Panthers thereby lost their high scoring forward. That and the fact that the Panthers started the season without a single regular from last year, put two strikes on the boys before the game began.

Carrollton lost Mike Graves for the remainder of the season when Nebo knocked them out of the tournament Thursday. Graves will become 20 years of age Sunday, and therefore will be ineligible for further competition.

Hank Whitman, six foot forward on the Carrollton team, has been elected captain for the remainder of the season. Whitman weighs 175 pounds and sometimes takes over the center position. He is a senior and made the second All-Illinois Valley conference football team his first year out for the sport. He is also a high jumper and shot putter.

Orville Kruehoff, the Carrollton coach who likes his track work, is going to try to put over an English style track meet this spring. The idea back of the whole thing being that more boys will get into competition. The English style, he informs us, consists of running more relay races, and doing away with the individual events to a great extent. Even in the field events, the efforts of four men are to be tallied to determine the winning team. The plan probably will be advanced farther before long.

After making Jerseyville get out and

Pleasant Hill is having tough luck in tournaments so far this year. They were defeated in the first round of the Milton tournament, and lost out in the opening round of the Winchester meeting. Maybe the third time out in a tournament is going to be more successful.

Carl Morrison, Bluffs coach, is still trying to figure out what happened to the Blue Jay free tossing in the Murrayville game. Bluffs scored six out of a possible eight points from the free throw line during the first half, and then got only four out of a possible 13 during the final half. The Blueboys were able to get only one field basket down during the final 16 minutes of play.

Dinty Moore declares that we erred when we said Milton scored six or seven long shots in the game against White Hall. He claims Milton scored only two long shots, and that White Hall rammed in six Milton made only four out of 14 free throws and White Hall made 10 out of 18.

Moore also confessed that White Hall crossed him up. He scouted the Maroons twice, and both times they used a man-to-man defense. Then, when they played Milton they came up with a zone defense.

The crowd got the biggest kick of the day out of a youngster sitting in front of the timer's table. The timer fired the gun to end a period and this youngster fell off the bleacher seat out into the court as if he had been shot. He picked himself up and scrambled back on the seat after a second or so, and then the crowd began to laugh. For a moment the crowd seemed to have been under the impression that someone had been injured.

Speaking of bleachers—Jacksonville high hopes to have a whole new string to cover the south wall of the gymnasium by the time Cathedral high of Springfield comes here for a game with the Crimson Tuesday. The bleachers have been ordered for some time and are expected any time now.

DISLIKES "TIP OFF"
Chicago—(AP)—The off-heard proposal to abolish the tipoff in basketball has a supporter in Nees Norgren, University of Chicago coach. In Paul Amundsen, Chicago boasts one of the tallest centers in the Big Ten, but Norgren says he would gladly sacrifice Amundsen's height if the tipoff were abandoned because he believes such a step would speed up the game. He would prefer seeing the ball being put in play from the side lines by the team which had been scored on.

J.H.S. Alumni Defeats Varsity

Older Players Win Game 31 to 24 in Contest Here Last Night

The Jacksonville alumni basketball team defeated the varsity quintet on the high school gymnasium floor last night by a score of 31 to 24. The game was hard fought throughout but the older players had their basket eyes in better condition than the varsity team.

As a curtain raiser the freshman-sophomore team defeated the Junior basketball team by a 17 to 14 score. Practically all of the varsity quintet broke into the scoring column, George Hamilton, center; Moxon, guard; Lukeman and Hamm, forwards scoring as members of the regular team and A. Ketter, Peterson and Freddie May counting as substitutes. Bellatti played a guard position with Moxon.

For the varsity team baskets were counted for Leeper, Henry, C. Keiner, Baldwin, Abell and Johnson. Baptista played at center and Henry, Baldwin and Hemphill were substitutes.

SWIFT HAWKEYES PLAY ILLINI

Defeated only by the Big Ten's defending co-champions, Indiana and Purdue, the University of Iowa's basketball team will play Illinois at Urbana Saturday evening in an important league game.

Ben Stephens, a Cambridge, Ill., sophomore, is leading Hawkeye scorer with 92 points in ten games, while Walter Gaddis, his swift running mate, has made 64.

Iowa's defense, which held three high-scoring conference rivals to an average of 27 points, will be headed by Captain Kenneth Suesens, with the assistance of other veterans, Joe Van Ysseldyck and Al Bobby.

The fast-breaking Hawkeye attack will be aided by the clever feeding of Jack Drees which gives Stephens and Gaddis many close-in shots.

"Silent" Voice Of Announcer Joe Humphries To Be Honored

New York, Jan. 15.—(AP)—For the last time within the beaten memory of Broadway's oldest cliff dwellers a man is to be honored because he "was" a jolly, good fellow.

Mr. Coffey Reader, the quotation marks around the verb "was" are important. They make the story. Thousands of men have been cheered "because he's a jolly good fellow" and thousands have been forgotten as the verb drifted along with their fortunes into past tense.

That's why the testimonial dinner to Joe Humphries at Madison Square Garden Monday night is so unusual, so unprecedented. The famous prize fight announcer with the silver voice has been dead for a year and a half, but his magnetism, faith and charity aren't forgotten.

Receipts from the dinner, a plain meal of beefsteak at five dollars a copy, will be used to erect a monument to the memory of the popular Irishman. More than 2000 testimonials have been made. The men who piled up and down Broadway want to be sure he isn't forgotten too soon.

The tribute to Humphries proves that any road, even a side street, can lead the right man to fame. And it proves that the spirit of friendliness and camaraderie still frequent New York's brightly lit "Street of Slugs."

Stories of Joe Humphries, who rose from a friendly, rough boy to pre-eminence in the world of boxing, are endless. Wherever you go, you hear them. He was a man who went out to meet a hostile crowd and won it over for good.

He was a master when it came to controlling the crowd, silencing it no matter how great the uproar. His signals were famous as he'd shout the weight of fighters in pounds and indicate the fraction with a wave of the arm. Crowds never failed to shout the fraction aloud and Joe would lead them in a cheer, when they got it correctly.

Joe never knew Charles Lindbergh, but it was Joe who conducted the most impressive prayer for the safety of the "lone eagle" as he swung his way to Paris. How Joe shuffled the vast crowd at Yankee Stadium that night in 1927, begged it for indulgence and then got it to stand in silence for one minute of prayer for the young flier's safety was awe inspiring.

Amplifiers were introduced much to Joe's disgust at the Carpenter-Dempsey fight at Boyle's 30 acres. "Take that new contraption away," ordered Joe.

"Why, Joe," explained promoter Tex Rickard, "you'll need it this time. There are 95,000 people out in those stands."

"Don't worry," promised Joe. "They'll hear me tonight as they never heard me before."

He didn't use the new fangled amplifiers that night but the vast crowd heard him. His tenor voice outdid itself.

No wisecrackers or heckler in the galleries could better Joe. He would pick a heckler out of the vast mob, point to him and silence him. He did such a good job that his friends used to heckle him just to hear Joe's comeback.

A heckler once got moved for his effort. "Hey, you!" shouted Joe as he pointed his finger at the heckler who was at ringside. "How'd you get such a good job? I gave you a five dollar ticket. Now get back where you oughta be."

Joe Humphries was human, too. Many is the time he pleaded successfully with a fight manager to make his fighter go easy with a youngster just coming up or an old timer fighting his last fight.

He must have been a grand guy.

Rout's Old Stars Beat Varsity Team

Alumni Lineup in 40 to 33 Victory Friday Evening; S. Jacksonville Wins

Rout high school alumni players showed their younger brothers how basketball is played last night, winning a 40 to 33 decision from the varsity. The game between the present crop of Rout athletes and the old stars drew a good crowd to Liberty Hall.

In the preliminary, South Jacksonville grade school defeated the St. Patrick's grade school.

The alumni lads rushed away to a 10 to 4 lead in the first quarter, and that margin stood approximately the same for the remainder of the game. The first half wound up with the alumni leading 21 to 13 and the eight point lead at the end of the third period, which closed 30 to 22.

Bernard Ferry was the main scoring threat for the varsity, while Augie DiCenso paced the alumni.

Champaign, Ill.—(AP)—The football notwithstanding, "spring" weather practice will open at the University of Illinois next month.

Coach Bob Zuppke will call varsity and freshmen gridgers together Feb. 8 and plans to conclude the early drill by Easter. Interest will center in the development of Freshman players and it is probable that the Notre Dame shift will be studied, inasmuch as the Illinois oppose the Irish Oct. 9.

9 p. m.—Championship game.

Winchester—Winchester's scrappy Wildcats pulled the big surprise of its own invitational tournament in the quarter final round here Friday, spilling Roodhouse in a hard fought game that found the Wildcats getting better as the game went along. In the semi-final round with White Hall, conquerors of Murrayville, Nebo, winners by a single point over Griggsville, and Beardstown whose ball hawks completely overwhelmed Jerseyville.

The semi-final round will be played this afternoon with the consolation and championship battles scheduled for tonight. Beardstown appeared to rule as the favorite to cop the championship, if they are able to get over Nebo in the semi-finals, while White Hall, the defending title holders, ranked as the team that might spill the dome if the inspiration which keyed up Winchester Friday night wits away before the Wildcats bump into the Maroons. Large crowds attended both sessions Friday despite the icy condition of the roads, and indications are that a larger crowd will be on hand for Saturday's wind up games.

Wildcats Split Railroads.
Sweeping Roodhouse off their feet in the first quarter of the game with an attack that refused to be beaten back, the Wildcats knocked Roodhouse off their stride and never let them get going. They caged up Duty, Roodhouse scoring ace, kept Ralph McConally from getting into the open, and took advantage of the fact that Roodhouse was staggering from the loss of their regular center, "Flop" Roodhouse, who was forced to remain at home in bed with an attack of influenza, which showed up during the Roodhouse victory over Pleasant Hill.

Quinn was the big scoring nose for the Wildcats, sinking four free tosses in the first half, and then lumbering his shooting apparatus to ring up 15 points in the final half. Beardstown tried to use its slow game against Jerseyville, but when Jerseyville forced them to hit a fast tempo, they did it—with Harold Bell winging the hoop with such startling accuracy that when he was taken from the game everyone in the crowd gave him a big hand. Bell's personal contribution to the Beardstown victory was 21 points, but his performance was more than that of getting points, because he got them so prettily.

Beardstown took a 10-1 lead in the first quarter, and had a 25 to 8 lead at the end of the first half. By the end of the third quarter Beardstown reserves were in the game, but the seconds kept on ringing in points. Bell's shooting was some of the most spectacular of the tournament.

Afternoon Games
Nebo pulled a hot battle out of the fire in the opening game of the afternoon with a finish that left a well filled gymnasium slightly groggy and entirely unprepared for the sizzling battle Murrayville put up against it old basketball rival White Hall.

With a little over a minute to go, Griggsville had a four point lead and apparently had the game going its way after a dog fight all the way. Neither team attempted much in the way of a defense during the first half in their efforts to build up a lead which would withstand a lot of shooting in the second half. Nebo quit the court at half time with a 27 to 22 lead, and wasn't able to do any better during the third quarter which finished with the teams still five points apart.

Then came the finish, with N. Franklin pitching in a field goal and a free throw to knock off three points of the Griggsville lead, and Turnbaugh following with a shot which decided the game with only a little over a half minute to play. N. Franklin and Turnbaugh were the scoring highlights for the winners, scoring 25 points.

Murrayville's gallant little Shadows gave White Hall a battle through the first half of their game, but White Hall's height and the fear that Murrayville injected into them, began to tell the story in the final half. The Shadows, with "Plea-Bite" Baker pitching from the middle of the court kept in the ball game, but they couldn't keep up with the scoring high jinks of Pair and Wendell, White Hall's big point makers.

The Shadows lost some of their first string players in a field goal and crucial points of the game, and these losses made White Hall's job just enough easier that they were able to run up the score.

Mint Springs is running away with the popular-priced field. It has the real flavor and fragrance of genuine Straight Kentucky Bourbon—the quality that comes from fine, sound grains, deep-well limestone water, and deep-charred oak barrel aging.

Test Fleet Travels Distance Equal to Twice Around the World Each Week to Test Auto Supplies

Rolling along at all hours of the day and night, the drivers working on eight hour shifts, the Firestone Test Fleet travels a distance of 76,000,000 miles each year. It is interesting to know that Firestone Tires on the test fleet travel, each week, a distance of more than twice around the world. Here, under actual operating conditions, much more severe than is ordinarily experienced, Firestone Auto Supplies are tested for endurance, efficiency and performance under every imaginable kind of weather and road condition.

In conjunction with the test fleet, the Firestone modern laboratories work continuously under the direction of expert Firestone chemists and engineers, testing all auto supplies for strength, durability and quality. They are rigidly inspected to make sure they give long economical service. Mr. Engberg, Manager of the Firestone Auto Supply and Service Store, says that this testing and inspection is just one of the many ways in which Firestone assures its customers of complete satisfaction and extra value with its products.

Recover Motor of Sunken Army Plane

Hennepin, Ill., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Illinois National guardsmen, working from barges anchored in the Illinois river, recovered from the bottom of the stream today the motor of an observation plane in which two Massachusetts National Guard fliers plunged to their death Monday night.

A diver, William Deane of Joliet, Ill., who descended to the river bottom, reported he had been unable to determine if the bodies of the two fliers, Lieut. Frank Otis, Boston, and Sergt. John F. Gibbons, Natick, Mass., were in the wrecked plane.

Deane said the plane was piled up in a heap on the bottom of the stream. He expressed the opinion the two bodies would be found pinned beneath the wreckage. The plane's motor was raised by cables lowered to the diver. Efforts to raise the broken plane to the surface were temporarily halted tonight when the temperature dropped to 15 above zero and the cold hampered the workers. Diving operations were expected to be resumed tomorrow.

Dr. Lewis said complications and a fall which reopened an old leg injury has left the old-time baseball star with a serious infection.

Blueboys Reject Bids To Co-ed Dance; Hope to Beat McKendree

Probable Starters
McKendree pos. Illinois

Manis c. Scheffler

Time—7 p. m. and 8:15 p. m.
Place—L. S. D. gymnasium.

Illinois College's Blueboys turned down all invitations from co-eds on the campus to attend a dance last night—they are just a team of basketball players. They want to shake off the failure to hit the hoop which cost them a possible victory at Carthage, and they are not going to let late hours dim their eyesight for the game with McKendree college here tonight on the Illinois School for the Deaf boards.

Athletic Director Van Meter gave the boys permission to attend the dance but the players themselves held a caucus and decided not to attend. Van Meter yesterday received a probable starting line-up from McKendree, listing among its starters a 6 foot 7 inch center, Manis, who will be one of the biggest boys to show here until Louis Laster returns to college for the second semester of this year. The coach said he would start Charles McCollum, of Granite City, in one of the forward positions in order to find men who can keep things going and in an effort to break up the line which seems to have hit the Illinois short game. The Illinois College freshmen are slated to meet the Gem City Business college team of Quincy in a curtain raiser to be played at seven o'clock.

FAN BREEZES:

Finding out why the Illinois College Blueboys failed to click at Carthage has been bothering Athletic Director LaRue Van Meter this week, and the Blueboy coach isn't certain that the trouble has been determined permanently.

The first attack of failing to hit the hoop overcame the boys on their southern trip, but it went away with just a little work. The second attack however lasted for two games, Centenary and Mississippi colleges, inflicting blows during that period. Illinois overcame Millikin and then the Hawaiians at Williamsburg, but slipped again at Carthage, losing a conference game that may mean something before the year is out.

Anyhow, the Blueboys are now on the spot. They have to win the rest of their conference games and do a little "twisting" to get a claim on the title. Bradley has turned up with a strong outfit this year, and the Blueboys don't get a crack at them.

Jacksonville has contributed to this year's Ashland high team. Fisel, who was appointed to act as captain of the Panthers in the game against Beardstown in the Winchester tournament, played some basketball for Coach Frank Walker before moving over to the Cass county city.

Ashland went into its game with Beardstown under a severe handicap. Scarlet fever took "Lefty" Mullen out of the line-up, and the Panthers thereby lost their high scoring forward. That and the fact that the Panthers started the season without a single regular from last year, put two strikes on the boys before the game began.

Carrollton high lost Mike Graves for the remainder of the season when Nebo knocked them out of the tournament Thursday. Graves will become 20 years of age Sunday, and therefore will be ineligible for further competition.

Hank Whiteman, six foot forward on the Carrollton team, has been elected captain for the remainder of the season. Whiteman weighs 175 pounds and sometimes takes over the center position. He is a senior and made the second All-Illinois Valley conference football team his first year out for the sport. He is also a high jumper and shot putter.

Orville Krughoff, the Carrollton coach who likes his track work, is going to try to put over an English style track meet this spring, the idea back of the whole thing being that more boys will get into competition. The English style, he informs us, consists of running more relay races, and doing away with the individual events to a great extent. Even in the field events, the efforts of four men are tallied to determine the winning team. The plan probably will be advanced farther before long.

After making Jerseyville get out and hustle for one half, Coach M. L. Egdon had only one comment to make when his team lost by a 50-18 score. That was "All we need is a gymnasium, and we'll make some of those boys get out and hustle faster."

Pleasant Hill is having tough luck in tournaments so far this year. They were defeated in the first round of the Milton tournament, and lost out in the opening round of the Winchester meeting. Maybe the third time out in a tournament is going to be more successful.

Carl Morrison, Bluffs coach, is still trying to figure out what happened to the Blue Jay free tossing in the Murrayville game. Bluffs scored six out of a possible eight points from the free throw line during the first half, and then got only four out of a possible 13 during the final half. The Blueboys were able to get only one field basket during the final 16 minutes of play.

Dinty Moore declares that we erred when we said Milton scored six or seven long shots in the game against White Hall. He claims Milton scored only two long shots and that White Hall rammed in six. Milton made only four out of 14 free throws and White Hall made 10 out of 18.

Moore also confessed that White Hall crossed him up. He scouted the Panthers twice, and both times they used a man-to-man defense. Then, when they played Milton they came up with a zone defense.

The crowd got the biggest kick of the day out of a youngster sitting on the front row of the bleachers just in front of the timer's table. The timer fired the gun to end a period and this youngster fell off the bleacher seat out into the court as if he had been shot. He picked himself up and scrambled back on the seat after a second or so, and then the crowd began to laugh. For a moment the crowd seemed to have been under the impression that someone had been injured.

Speaking of bleachers—Jacksonville high hopes to have a whole new string to cover the south wall of the gymnasium by the time Cathedral high of Springfield comes here for a game with the Crimson Tuesday. The bleachers have been ordered for some time and are expected anytime now.

DISLIKES "TIP OFF"

Chicago—(AP)—The off-heard proposal to abolish the tipoff in basketball has a supporter in Nees Norgren, University of Chicago coach.

In Paul Amundsen, Chicago boasts one of the tallest centers in the Big Ten, but Norgren says he would gladly sacrifice Amundsen's height if the tipoff were abandoned because he believes such a step would speed up the game. He would prefer seeing the ball being put in play from the side lines by the team which had been scored on.

J.H.S. Alumni Defeats Varsity

Older Players Win Game 31 to 24 in Contest Here Last Night

The Jacksonville alumni basketball team defeated the varsity quintet on the high school gymnasium floor last night by a score of 31 to 24. The game was hard fought throughout but the older players had their basket eyes in better condition than the varsity team.

As a curtain raiser the freshman-sophomore team defeated the Junior basketball team by a 17 to 14 score. Practically all of the varsity quintet broke into the scoring column, George Hamilton, center; Moxon, guard; Lukeman and Hamm, forwards scoring as members of the regular team and A. Ketter, Ferguson and Freddie May counting as substitutes. Bellatti played a guard position with Moxon. For the varsity team baskets were counted for Leeper, Henry, C. Ketter, Baldwin, Abell and Johnson. Bellatti played at center and Henry, Baldwin and Hemphill were substitutes.

SWIFT HAWKEYES PLAY ILLINI

Defeated only by the Big Ten's defending co-champions, Indiana and Purdue, the University of Iowa's basketball team will play Illinois at Urbana Saturday evening in an important league game.

Ben Stephens, a Cambridge, Ill., sophomore, is leading Hawkeye scorer with 92 points in ten games, while Walley Gaddis, his swift running mate, has made 64. Iowa's defense, which held three high-scoring conference rivals to an average of 27 points, will be headed by Captain Kenneth SueSENS, with the assistance of other veterans, Joe Van Yseldyk and Al Bobby.

The fast-breaking Hawkeye attack will be aided by the clever feeding of Jack Drees which gives Stephens and Gaddis many close-in shots.

"Silent" Voice Of Announcer Joe Humphries To Be Honored

New York, Jan. 15.—(AP)—For the first time within the beaten memory of Broadway's oldest cliff dwellers a man is to be honored because he "was" a jolly, good fellow.

Mr. Copy Reader, the quotation marks around the verb "was" are important. They make the story. Thousands of men have been cheered "because he's a jolly good fellow," and thousands have been forgotten as the verb drifted along with their fortunes into past tense.

That's why the testimonial dinner to Joe Humphries at Madison Square Garden Monday night is so unusual, so unprecedented. The famous prize fight announcer with the silver voice has been dead for a year and a half, but his magnetism, faith and charity aren't forgotten.

Receipts from the dinner, a plain meal of beefsteak at five dollars a copy, will be used to erect a monument to the memory of the popular Irishman. More than 2,000 reservations have been made. The men who piled up and down Broadway want to be sure he isn't forgotten too soon.

The tribute to Humphries proves that any road, even a side street, can lead the right man to fame. And it proves that the spirit of friendliness and camaraderie still frequent New York's brightly lighted "Street of Signs."

Stories of Joe Humphries, who rose from a friendless orphan boy to probably the most beloved man connected with the rough, tough game of boxing, are endless. Wherever you go, you hear them. He was a man who went out to meet a hostile crowd and won it over for good.

He was a master when it came to controlling the crowd, silencing it no matter how great the uproar. His signals were famous as he'd shout the weight of fighters in pounds and indicate the fraction with a wave of the arm. Crowds never failed to shout the fraction aloud and Joe would nod, highly pleased, when they got it correctly.

Joe never knew Charles Lindbergh, but it was Joe who conducted the most impressive prayer for the safety of the "lone eagle" as he winged his way to Paris. How Joe shushed the vast crowd at Yankee Stadium that May night in 1927, begged it for indulgence and then got it to stand in silence for one minute of prayer for the young flier's safety was awe inspiring.

Amplifiers were introduced much to Joe's disgust at the Carpenter-Dempsey fight at Boyle's 30 acres.

"Take that new contraption away," ordered Joe.

"Why, Joe," explained promoter Tex Rickard, "you'll need it this time. There are 95,000 people out in those stands."

"Don't worry," promised Joe. "They'll hear me tonight as they never heard me before."

He didn't use the new fangled amplifiers that night but the vast crowd heard him. His tenor voice outdid itself.

No wisecrackers or heckler in the galleries could better Joe. He would pick a heckler out of the vast mob, point to him and silence him. He did such a good job that his friends used to heckle him just to hear Joe's comeback.

A heckler once got moved for his effort. "Hey, you!" shouted Joe as he pointed his finger at the heckler who was at ringside, "how'd you give those 12 seats? I gave you a five dollar ticket. Now get back where you oughta be."

Joe Humphries was human, too. Many is the time he pleaded successfully with a fight manager to make his fighter go easy with a youngster just coming up or an old timer fighting his last fight.

He must have been a grand guy.

Rout's Old Stars Beat Varsity Team

Alumni Lineup in 40 to 33 Victory Friday Evening; S. Jacksonville Wins

Rout high school alumni players showed their younger brothers how basketball is played last night, winning a 40 to 33 decision from the varsity. The game between the present crop of Rout athletes and the old stars drew a good crowd to Liberty Hall.

In the preliminary South Jacksonville grade school defeated the St. Patrick's grade school.

The alumni had rushed away to a 10 to 4 lead in the first quarter, and that margin stood approximately the same for the remainder of the game.

The first half wound up with the alumni leading 21 to 13, and the eight point lead at the end of the third period, which closed 30 to 22.

Bernard Ferry was the main scoring threat for the varsity, while Augie DiCenzo paced the alumni.

Winchester—Winchester's scrappy Wildcats pulled the big surprise of its own invitational tournament in the quarter final round here Friday, spilling Roodhouse in a hard fought game that found the Wildcats getting better as the game went along to climb into the semi-final round with White Hall, conquerors of Murrayville, Nebo, winners of a single point over Griggsville, and Beardstown, whose ball hawks completely overwhelmed Jerseyville.

The semi-final round will be played this afternoon with the consolation and championship battles scheduled for tonight. Beardstown appeared to rule as the favorite to cop the championship, if they are able to get over Nebo in the semifinals, while White Hall, the defending title holders, ranked as the team that might spill the dope, if the inspiration which keyed up Winchester Friday night wits away before the Wildcats bump into the Maroons.

Large crowds attended both sessions Friday despite the icy condition of the roads, and indications are that a larger crowd will be on hand for Saturday's wind up games.

Wildcats Spill Roodhouse.
Sweeping Roodhouse off their feet in the first quarter of the game with an attack that refused to be beaten back, the Wildcats knocked Roodhouse off their stride and never let them get going. They caged up Duty, Roodhouse scoring ace, kept Ralph McConathy from getting into the open, and took advantage of the fact that Roodhouse was staggering from the loss of their regular center, "Flip" Roodhouse, who was forced to remain at home in bed with an attack of influenza, which showed up during the Roodhouse victory over Pleasant Hill.

Quinn was the big scoring nose for the Wildcats, sinking four free tosses in the first half, and then lumbering his shooting apparatus to ring up 15 points in the final half.

Beardstown tried to use its slow game against Jerseyville, but when Jerseyville forced them to hit a fast tempo they did it with Harold Bell winging the horn with such startling accuracy that when he was taken from the game everyone in the crowd gave him a big hand. Bell's personal contribution to the Beardstown scoring was 21 points, but his performance was more than that of getting points, because he got them so prettily.

Beardstown took a 10-1 lead in the first quarter, and had a 25 to 8 lead at the end of the first half. By the end of the third quarter Beardstown reserves were in the game, but the seconds kept on ringing in points. Bell's shooting was some of the most spectacular of the tournament.

Afternoon Games
Nebo pulled a hot battle out of the fire in the opening game of the afternoon with a finish that left a well filled gymnasium slightly groggy and entirely unprepared for the sizzling battle Murrayville put up against it old basketball rival White Hall.

With a little over a minute to go, Griggsville had a four point lead and apparently had the game going its way after a dog fight all the way.

Neither team attempted much in the way of a defense during the first half in their efforts to build up a lead, which would withstand a lot of shooting in the second half. Nebo quit the court at half time with a 27 to 22 lead, and wasn't able to do any better during the third quarter which finished with the teams still five points apart.

Then came the finish, with N. Franklin pitching in a fine goal and a free throw to knock off three points of the Griggsville lead, and Turnbaugh following with a shot which decided the game with only a little over a half minute to play. N. Franklin and Turnbaugh were the scoring highlights for the winners, scoring 25 points.

Murrayville's gallant little Shadows gave White Hall a battle through the first half of their game, but White Hall's height and the fear that Murrayville injected into them, began to tell the story in the final half. The Shadows, with "Flea-Bite" Baker pitching from the middle of the court kept in the ball game, but they couldn't keep up with the scoring high jinks of Fair and Wendell, White Hall's big point makers.

The Shadows lost some of their first string players on fouls at crucial points of the game, and these losses made White Hall's job just enough easier that they were able to run up the score.

Athletic Field At I.C. to Be Flooded For Skating Rink

Want Volunteers Today At Field; Fire Department Will Provide Water

Plans for converting the Illinois College athletic field into a huge skating rink were completed last night, and early this morning the job of clearing snow from the field and flooding it will be started.

Before the end of the week, dependent on weather conditions, it is expected that the rink will be in use by scores of youngsters and older persons, who like to fasten on a pair of skates and cut the figure eight, along with other fancy glides.

Illinois College authorities yesterday gave permission for use of the field as a skating rink. W. L. Dowland has promised a tractor, five cars will loan a grade for the removal of snow, and Chief Frank Sullivan of the fire department will superintend the flooding of the field after the snow has been scooped out and removed.

A similar rink was built on the college field last winter, proving popular with a large number of skaters. The safety element is complete, so that parents are quick to give their consent to children skating on a rink where the ice is frozen to the ground.

Arrangements for constructing the rink were forwarded yesterday by Fred Darr, superintendent of the YMCA-WPA recreation project. Mr. Darr said that volunteer workers are wanted at the athletic field at 8:30 o'clock this morning, to help clear the snow, to grade the field, and to install other implements with which to work.

After the rink at the college field is completed, another probably will be built at the Jefferson school grounds.

J.H.S. Enters Three Teams in Practice Debate Tournament

First Inter-Scholastic Competition of Season for Crimsons

Jacksonville High School will enter three complete teams in the practice debate tournament at the school today. It will be the first inter-scholastic competition of the season for the Crimsons.

Team one for J. H. S. will be composed of Bill Green and Bill Lowry, affirmative, and Gracia Hall and John Self, negative.

Team two will have Carol McClelland with Jane Dunlap on the affirmative and Barbara Butler and John Clark on the negative side. The two sides of the third local team will be upheld by Ralph Thomson and Bavar Oxtoby, Ruth Thomson and Dallas Hagan.

The question debated will be the national high school debate question of the year, "Resolved, that all electric utilities should be governmentally owned and operated."

In addition to the Jacksonville teams, Pittsfield will enter two complete teams, and Franklin, Pekin and Quincy Academy will each have one of both affirmative and negative.

Following the debates of which there will be three rounds there will be a round table discussion for all of the entrants.

Debates will be judged, but no champion will be picked. The judges will be Keach Johnson, William Vickery, and John Deem of the high school faculty and Edward Johnson, Bob Fay, Clarence Evans, Arthur Hallberg, and Bill Clark of the Illinois College student body.

"It will be our job to prevent unnecessary noise when legislation is under consideration," Boland told his assistant whips.

Aesop created the idea for the emblem on the American dime. The moral of many of his stories was "in union there is strength."

Two Foxes Killed, Another Crippled In Day's Hunting

Alexander Men Engage In Roundup With Success; Plan Another Hunt

Alexander, Jan. 15.—Two red foxes paid for their depredations on hen nests of this community today when they were slain by a large band of hunters, staging a roundup under auspices of the Alexander Sportsmen's club.

One of the foxes was shot by Orris Gray and Arthur Webster on the Krump farm southwest of here. Gray shot first at the animal with Webster getting in a shot a second later. The second fox was brought down by a volley from several guns, so that the actual slayer was not determined.

The pelts were brought here and sold to Wayne Kinnett at the grain elevator for $4.50 each, the proceeds going to the treasury of the sportsmen's organization.

About 65 men and boys joined the roundup this morning, which covered a three mile square of farm and timber lands. This afternoon the hunters numbered 25, taking in a larger territory. A fox was sighted and crippled but made its getaway.

During this morning's roundup of hunters saw but a single covey of quail. It is believed that foxes have preyed on quail as well as farmer's poultry.

The roundup today was in charge of four captains, including K. V. Beatty, Elmer Strawn, Arthur Webster and Joseph Bergschneider.

Another roundup was announced to be held next Tuesday, leaving Alexander at 9 o'clock.

Believing that the public will be interested in seeing the pictures and reading about these men who want to lead Jacksonville, the Journal and Courier will present them systematically.

While the majority of candidates will remain in the running, it is rumored that one or more may withdraw their names before the final day for this action, which is next Tuesday, Jan. 19.

Athletic Field At I. C. to Be Flooded For Skating Rink

Want Volunteers Today At Field; Fire Department Will Provide Water

Plans for converting the Illinois College athletic field into a huge skating rink were completed last night, and early this morning the job of clearing snow from the field and flooding it will be started.

Before the end of the week, dependent somewhat on weather conditions, it is expected that the rink will be in use by scores of youngsters and older persons, who like to fasten on a pair of skates and cut the figure eight, along with other fancy glides.

Illinois College authorities yesterday gave permission for use of the field as a skating rink. Wise & Dowland have promised a tractor, the city will loan a grader for the removal of snow, and Chief Frank Sullivan of the fire department will superintend the flooding of the field, after the snow has been scooped out and removed.

A similar rink was built on the college field last winter, proving popular with a large number of skaters. The safety element is complete, so that parents are quick to give their consent to children skating on a rink where the ice is frozen to the ground.

Arrangements for constructing the rink were forwarded yesterday by Fred Darr superintendent of the YMCA-WPA recreation project. Mr. Darr said that volunteer workers are wanted at the athletic field at 8:30 o'clock this morning, to help clear the snow. They should take shovels and other implements with which to work.

After the rink at the college field is completed, another probably will be built at the Jefferson school grounds.
